

Maine Historical Society Permission to Photograph

Current membership to the society is required for the use of a non-flash digital camera. Hand-held scanners, flat-bed scanners and similar technology are not permitted. High-resolution or quality images may be ordered from the Society's Image Services Department. Some restrictions may apply. The library staff has the right to limit photography for any reason.

I request permission to make a simple photographic copy for personal or study use only of:

_____ (please list collection call number for each collection photographed)

Please turn off the 'shutter' noise feature on your camera or phone, as not to disturb other patrons.

I agree to abide by the following terms and conditions:

- No flash, lights, tripod, weights or additional supplemental equipment may be used
- Library materials may not be placed on chairs or floors
- Do not stand on library furniture
- Camera may be used at reading room tables only
- Archival covers should not be removed without checking with a reference librarian
- Images are to be used as reference copies or for school projects only
- If surrogates (digital images or photocopies) exist, originals may not be photographed
- Images may not be published, displayed, distributed, or posted on a website without the express written permission of the Maine Historical Society. To obtain copies for publication, you must purchase a reproduction from the Image Services Department and fill out a Permission to Publish form
